Memorial Day services honor those who have served

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

A bright sunny morning made perfect weather for about 80 people in front of the Doughboy Statue on Courthouse Square Monday morning for the annual Memorial Day service.

The ceremony began with the singing of the National Anthem by Sheila Cain followed by the invocation, given by U.S. Army veteran Sgt. Bennie Lawhorn.

Presenting the colors were members of the Casey County High School Air Force JROTC program, which included 2nd Lt. Chance Phillips, C/Col. Aubrey Buis (U.S.), C/Maj. Olivia Emerson (AF), C/1st Lt. Breana Wilson (MIA/POW), and C/MSgt. Richard Roysden.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Sgt. First Class Donald Smither introduced Commander William F. Hill of the U.S. Navy who gave the keynote address.

Hill, who was on the U.S.S. Independence in 1970 alongside Smither, told the crowd that our veterans are our family.

■ COUNTY FAIR 2014

Casey County Fair kicks off Saturday

By Larry Rowell
Editor

Even with school letting out June 4, nothing says "summer's here" like the county fair.

The Casey County Agricultural and Educational Fair begins Saturday, May 31 and runs through June 7 at the Central Kentucky AG/EXPO Center.

And, according to Casey County Fair Board President Paul Meeks, this year's event will feature a few new changes.

"The newest thing is the WOW Bubbles — walking on water without getting wet," Meeks said. The bubble allows someone to climb inside and then walk on water.

Also, Meeks said, the horse and mule shows and rodeo will be the only events on Saturday, May 31.

Another change involves the dairy and beef shows which will be held July 15 in conjunction with the District Dairy show.

Admission is $10 per person every night except Monday, which is family night, where admission is $8 per person.

Meeks said that's a bargain, because it includes more than 20 carnival rides, Laser Tag, music, exhibits, demolition derbys, and truck and tractor pulls.

Casey's Rides will once again be providing thrilling rides for little ones all the way to teens and adults beginning Monday, June 2 at 6 p.m. and ending on Saturday night.

New this year will be the return of Clementsville Motor Sports (Wolford and Wethington) truck pull on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Meeks said that kids of all ages will look forward to playing Laser Tag Monday-Saturday nights beginning at 6 p.m.

Always a family favorite, No Joe's Clown Circus will also be back this year featuring multiple shows.

Also for this year, a dunking booth, sponsored by 4-H, will give contestants a chance to "dunk" city and county officials in a tank of water.

Jeffrey Callahan of Pennsylvania and Hunter Emerson of Liberty enjoyed the Superman ride at last year's Casey County Fair carnival. The carnival at the 2014 fair opens on Monday.

Pageants

Youth and baby pageants, as well as Little Miss and Mr. Casey County Fair, will be held on Sunday afternoon this year in the Pork Producer's Building.

The afternoon kicks off at 2 p.m. with a pageant for ages from birth to 4 years. An entry fee is required.

At 3:30 p.m., the Little Miss and Mister Casey County Fair will be crowned, followed by the youth pageant for 5-7 year olds at 4 p.m.

On Monday, the Miss Casey County Fair event will be held at 8 p.m., with interviews beginning at 6 p.m. The winner of the Miss Casey County Fair will go on to represent Casey County at the state level.

Then on Tuesday, two young ladies will be crowned Miss Casey County Fair Pre-Teen and Miss Casey County Fair Teen. Interviews begin at 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., respectively for these events.

County primary election process almost flawless

By Larry Rowell
Editor

The May 20 primary election is in the history books and went off basically with only a few small challenges.

"We had two machines to break down — one at Casey 5 at Douglas Elementary School and the other at the Central Kentucky AG/EXPO Center," said Casey County Court Clerk Casey Davis.

Davis said that he and his staff took a spare machine he had at the office and had personnel from Harp Enterprises in Lexington to reprogram the machine in a matter of minutes.

The other machine — an e-slate — at the Ag Center "smelled hot" Davis said, and was turned off. The e-scan machine then became the only machine in that precinct.

As far as encountering any problems, Davis said that the elections went smoothly.

"I was very proud of the way it went," he said, adding that the main reason was because of his highly trained and efficient poll workers and office staff.

But other counties weren't as fortunate.

Kentucky Attorney General Jack Conway's office answered 205 phone calls on the election fraud hotline on May 20.

While none of these calls came from Casey County, Pulaski County had 11 calls to the hotline.

As far as voter turnout, 40.6 percent of Casey's 10,857 voters went to the polls, down from the 44.5 percent of county residents who voted in the May 2010 primary.

Statewide, only 27 percent of voters went to the polls, down almost six percentage points from four years ago.

EDITORIAL

Congratulations

The adage that politics make “strange bedfellows” certainly didn’t apply to this year’s primary election, at least on the local level.

The usual ill will, backbiting, and mud slinging just didn’t rear its ugly head this political season, and that made for a much more pleasant experience for everyone.

We saw candidates for every office eating together at fire department fund raisers and in local restaurants as well as smiling and shaking hands with each other when they all descended on an event where politicians typically show up.

We want to express our thanks to all for a great campaign. It speaks of family, friends, and unity in our county.

With that said, it ain’t over until the fat lady sings and she won’t take the stage until Nov. 12 and we then know who will represent us in January 2015.

We know from the primary that we will have a new judge-executive, and at least two, and possibly four, new magistrates, a new coroner, and two new constables.

And that means the entire face of county government could change beginning in January.

County government is not an easy beast to tame and we need to get behind our elected officials as they begin a new term.

In addition, we still have the mayor’s race and city councilmen to elect in November.

Stay tuned, folks, this is going to get good.

‘In the good ole summer time...’

One of the things that I like about Facebook is people sharing memories from the dark ages, or as we Baby Boomers like to call them, the 1960s and 70s.

It seems that this time of year, during the summer months, our memories fly back in time to those care free days of being out of school and late evenings of playing outside with friends.

Neighbors and family members would sit outside and visit until it got dark and the mosquitoes begin their quest to bite any exposed skin.

We had those old metal chairs in the backyard that the adults would form into a circle and talk quietly while we played.

As darkness fell, the only light that showed was the glow from the ember of a cigarette that daddy smoked.

Often pleasant smells wafted through the neighborhood and even today, any of us over 55 can encounter these odors in the summertime and instantly recall the same memories from 50 years ago.

The smell of fresh cut grass and hamburgers on a charcoal grill still bring a smile to my face.

In the days before we had to work full time during the summer, evenings meant playing in the grass and getting those green stains all over knees and on the bottoms of feet.

Only a good scrubbing could erase all signs of a game of “Red Light, Green Light,” or “Simon Says” played barefoot in the yard.

All these childhood games came to a end when at about 11 years of age, I found gainful employment as a waterboy in the old Anderson and Gray tobacco warehouse in my hometown.

Farmers delivered their 200-pound piles of tobacco co wrapped in burlap and these piles would be lined up on the long concrete floor.

The auctioneer and buyers from the tobacco companies walked between each row and never slowed down as the auctioneer chanted in his sing song melody that the previous pile was purchased by American or P. Lorillard.

My job was to have a galvanized bucket of ice water with a dipper and a box of paper cone cups at the end of each row to hand the buyer who usually was drenched in sweat.

I was told that the ice water was for the white buyers only, and that blacks who moved the piles of tobacco after the sale couldn’t have any.

Small in stature, I was often terrorized by a couple of these black workers who threatened me with all sorts of bodily harm if I didn’t let them have a drink.

Cornered one day at the end of the row by three men, I just knew that I had a beating coming my way.

All of a sudden, Homer “Billy” McCoy stepped in and stood toe-to-toe with the men and told them to leave me alone, that I was just doing my job. After that, I got a few remarks and ill looks but I didn’t live in fear as I did before.

One has to remember that this was during the turbulent years when parts of America such as south Georgia were facing the issues associated with desegregation.

With the close of that summer, my lolly gagging around days were over.

Subsequent summers I pumped gas, stacked concrete cinder blocks, mowed yards, and even became a bootlegger one summer.

I bootlegged fresh shrimp from the Mississippi coast back to my hometown. It was a profitable business until Daddy told me I had to quit because of violating state laws.

Ah, the summers of our youth. Take time this year and drink in the sights, sounds, and yes, the smells of summer.

It’ll do a body good.

Solution to Wells’ ant problem

In regards to my friend’s, Joberta Wells, ant problem — just try this old time home remedy.

½ cup plain flour
½ cup boric acid
½ cup cocoa
Mix all together and distribute.
No hooting — it really works!

My my, hay hay

It’s that time of year again — everywhere tractors are humming, dust and pollen are nesting on and in everything (including our noses), and most importantly, my daddy is baling hay.

For many people, hay season is nothing but a long summer list of even longer days, farming in the heat of the sun, stacking and unloading and stacking again. The square bales are itchy and never fail to leave microscopic scratches up and down your forearms.

The success of your cutting revolves around an ever-changing weather forecast and if you don’t time it just right, it can all be ruined by a big fat rain-fall from Mother Nature. Regardless of the obvious points of complaint, I look forward to hay season every single year.

During the winter, when I’m cold and have been cooped up far too long, I miss the sweat and scratches and aching arm muscles. I miss being jostled around on the hay wagon while my daddy drives the tractor, looking back at me every so often to make sure I haven’t fallen off or been buried by bales because he’s driving too fast (which he likes to do quite often). I miss the steady, rhythmic “CAH-CHINK” sound that the square baler makes when it’s tying off a new bale. I miss all of these small, beautiful things that make that wagon ride back to the barn, atop of huge heap of hay, a proud and grateful trip.

WHITEHOUSE
Staff Writer

When hay season finally rolls around, I know that I can count on my daddy to deliver a daily weather report, at least three or four times a day.

With his cell phone and weather app by his side, he is constantly on top of approaching weather possibilities and he will ALWAYS let me know when he comes across an update or change in system. To be perfectly honest, it is pretty entertaining to watch. It is an ongoing joke in our family that if we see a certain man in our area cutting his hay (I won’t name any names) then it is going to rain. As silly as that may seem, it has proven to be amusingly accurate.

Inside each hay season I find endless lessons to be learned — timing, patience, understanding, acceptance, adaptivity, perseverance — the list goes on and on. To outsiders it may seem like farming is just an average list of everyday chores that we do only for the sake of surviving, but that couldn’t be further from the truth. My life on the farm is beautiful and rich — just like my daddy’s alfalfa.

Celebrating the mystery of faith

Christianity is a religion of paradox because without faith, there is no true Christianity. Think about it: A paradox is defined as “a statement that seems contradictory, unbelievable, or absurd but that may be true in fact.”

Christians are a people of paradox because they believe to be true what appears in the natural to be unbelievable or absurd.

Bible scholar A.W. Pink wrote that “there are many paradoxes in the Christian life, which are quite unintelligible to the wise of this world. That man has to become a fool in order to be wise (I Corinthians 3:18), that he has to become a pauper in order to be made rich (Matthew 5:3), that he has to be made weak in order to become strong (II Corinthians 12:10), are enigmas that proud philosophers cannot elucidate.”

Several weeks ago, Christians celebrated the ultimate in paradox: God became fully human that

David B.
WHITLOCK
Guest
Columnist

by his death and resurrection they might live forever with him.

On Sunday, June 1, the church celebrates another paradox: The Ascension of the Lord.

Jesus told his disciples it would be better for them that he leave them. I can imagine them looking squint-eyed at Jesus and saying, “What?”

Here’s another paradox: By leaving them, Jesus could be more available to them. Now, because of Pentecost, which Christians celebrate on June 8, Jesus would be with them. True transformation could take place because of Jesus’ absence.

It’s all about paradox and faith, isn’t it?

If committed Christians appear a bit strange, even out of place in this world, could it be because they are living this paradoxical faith in earnest? They are joyful because they mourn, free because they are bound, peaceful because they have been broken.

But make no mistake about it, living this faith has its dangers.

An ancient letter describes the paradoxical lives of early Christians: “They live in their own countries as though they were only passing through. They play their full role as citizens, but labor under all the disabilities of aliens... They live in the flesh, but they are not governed by the desires of the flesh... They pass their days on earth, but they are citizens of heaven... Condemned because they are not understood, they are put to death, but raised to life again.”

Anyone who lives this faith full on will tell you that though it’s an exhilarating life, it is also peppered with trials and tribulations. That’s because it’s a life lived on the boundary between this world and the next. Walking that line is an act of faith.

Ponder how the Danish theologian and philosopher Soren Kierkegaard summarized this mystery that is inherent in Christianity: “The paradox in Christian truth is invariably due to the fact that it is the truth that exists for God. The standard of measure and the end is superhuman; and there is only one relationship possible: faith.”

For Christians looking to Ascension Sunday and Pentecost, embracing the paradox requires walking by faith in a life that celebrates the mystery, even though it’s surrounded by many “dangers, toils, and snares.”

Citizen Foster Care Review Board appeals for volunteers

By Abigail Whitehouse
Staff Writer

When a child is removed from their home and placed into foster care it can be a terrifying experience. Luckily a group of volunteers called the Citizen Foster Care Review Board (CFCRB) exist to ensure that children receive the imperative services while in foster care and are conclusively placed in permanent homes.

The CFCRB reviews Cabinet for Health and Family Services files, or case plans, on children placed in foster care and work with the cabinet and courts on behalf of the children in an effort to place them in safe, permanent homes as quickly as possible.

Case plans include information regarding the child's school and medical records, mental health records, and the status of reunification. CFCRB vol-

“It’s rewarding to volunteers to be able to ensure that the cabinet and the courts stay focused on the children that are committed to foster care.”
— Troy Bell
Family Services Administrator

unteers review these plans, meet with parties involved such as biological and foster parents and make necessary recommendations to District Judge Michael Loy.

With the large number of children placed in the state's care and only 800 volunteers statewide, Casey County's CFCRB is in need of more volunteers.

Larry Rowell, editor of Casey County News, has been a member of the CFCRB since 2012.

“It’s a great way to serve in the community,” Rowell said, “and also to be a voice to the judge in terms of recommendations for these children who are in foster care. Foster parents have done a wonderful job and I’m glad that I can help lend assistance to them by making recommendations about what they are doing with these children.”

One of the greatest needs in Casey County right now is to be a member of the CFCRB, Rowell said.

Volunteer candidates must fill out an application. Once the application has been submitted and a background check has been conducted, volunteers then complete an initial six-hour training session. These training sessions cover how to conduct a file review, forms used in abuse, neglect and dependency cases, mental health issues, and Department of Community Based Services procedures. After completing the training, a recommendation is made to the chief judge of the local District Court or Family Court for appointment.

With May being National Foster Care Month, the focus remains on bettering the lives of foster care children across the state.

As of May 4, 2014 there are 7,659 children in out-of-home care in Kentucky.

Troy Bell, Family Services Administrator for

Foster Care Review Board, said the ultimate goal is to reduce the amount of time children are in foster care and volunteers of the CFCRB play a big role.

“It’s rewarding to volunteers,” Bell said, “to be able to ensure that the cabinet and the courts stay focused on the children that are committed to foster care.”

Each child is reviewed every six months, receiving two reviews a year, Bell said.

One commonly unknown fact is once a child has turned 18 they have the choice to recommit to the state and go to college, where tuition is completely waived.

“We really try to get that message out,” Bell said.

Not only is there a need for CFCRB volunteers, there is also a need for foster parents.

Casey County native Carla Hogue said she has been a foster parent for seven years, with three adopted children of her own, and that the need for more foster parents is very high.

Hogue knows first-hand the positive impact that foster parents can have on the children in their community who have been removed from their biological home and placed under the state's care.

“Don’t believe all the horror stories,” Hogue said. “That has never been my experience. For me, it is such a rewarding and satisfying experience. You get the chance to bring a child, often a victim of abuse, into your home and love them and show them respect.”

Those interested in becoming a CFCRB volunteer can call the Department of Family and Juveniles Services in Frankfort at 1-800-928-2350 or visit the website at www.courts.ky.gov. You may also contact the department by email at cfcrb@kycourts.net.

Car Show

The final day of the county fair on Saturday, June 7 will feature a Cruise-In Car Show that begins at 1 p.m.

Two injured in separate accidents

Staff Report

Liberty police are investigating an accident on May 21 that injured a gasoline attendant at IGA.

An accident report filed by Lt. Ronnie Smith states that Beulah J. Brown, 47, of 30 Short St., Hustonville, approached the gas pumps between the first gas pumps and the gas hut in a 1999 Chevrolet pickup. The attendant, Effie M. Pittman, 41, of 4489 Ky. 910, Liberty, was exiting the gas hut about 3:30 p.m. when Brown’s vehicle hit the open door of the hut, forcing the door into Pittman, who fell back into the hut with her feet exposed outside the door.

Brown said that as she approached the hut, the door was not open. She looked to the gas pumps on her left, heard a noise and then realized she had struck something. Pittman said that as she opened the door she saw the truck which then struck the door, knocking her to the floor. In addition, Pittman said she thinks the truck then ran over her right foot.

A witness at the scene with Pittman said that they were in the process of closing the gas hut because IGA was out of gas. Pittman exited the hut first, the witness stated, and a vehicle hit the door, knocking Pittman back into the building. Casey County EMS transported Pittman to Casey County Hospital.

The Casey County Sheriff’s Department is also investigating a collision on Ky. 1547 involving an ATV and a 2003 Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

A collision report filed by Deputy Chad G. Weddle states that around 5:44 a.m. Ronnie Johnson, 29, of Liberty, was driving a 1998 Honda 300 Fourtrax north bound on Ky. 1547 and had stopped in the north bound lane when he was struck in the rear. Driving the Monte Carlo was Lee Ann Brock, 40, of 11716 Ky. 1547, who said she did not see Johnson stopped in the roadway because it was dark outside.

According to Weddle, Johnson was ejected from the ATV onto the vehicle’s windshield and then onto the ground. Douglas Elementary was used as a landing zone for an emergency helicopter and Johnson was airlifted to the U.K. Medical Center for several injuries. Brock was not injured.

NEWS BRIEFS

Ducky Dash, pancake breakfast raise $6,860

Liberty City Council has rejected a bid to cut hay on the Lake Liberty property.

In a meeting on May 21, council members went into executive session to discuss Harold Scott’s bid of $500. The city had advertised for bids to cut the hay.

However, Scott wanted to not only cut hay, he wanted to use the land for pasturing or planting corn, wheat, or alfalfa.

After discussion, city council members rejected the bid on the grounds that they had only advertised for the production of hay and the cost of insurance would be too high.

In other business, Mayor Steve Sweeney reported that the total funds raised from the Rubber Lucky Ducky Dash and a pancake breakfast was $6,860.

In addition, he said that the grading work for the new college in Liberty is finished and the floor is scheduled to be poured by the middle of June.

POLICE NEWS

Man charged with terroristic threatening

Mike Luttrell, 51, of 1846 Henson Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on May 25 on Henson Ridge Road by Brian King and charged with third-degree terroristic threatening. Court records state that King responded to a fight complaint on Willow Springs Road at Kevin Hatter’s home. According to the citation, Luttrell called his ex-girlfriend, who was present at the Hatter home, and threatened Kevin Hatter and his father, Dale Hatter, on speaker phone in the officer’s presence. Luttrell identified himself on the phone and stated that he would kill them both.

Woman cited for marijuana cultivation

Julie Pittman, 30, of 109 Linnie Rheber Road, Liberty, was cited for the cultivation of marijuana, less than five plants, on May 26. The citation states that Sheriff Jerry Coffman found marijuana plants in Pittman’s home on Linnie Rheber Rd. and she admitted that the plants were hers.

Two men charged with fourth-degree assault

Steven Vequett, 32, of 1853 Poplar Springs Road, Liberty, was arrested on May 21 for fourth-degree assault (minor injury) by Jamie Walters. Court records state that Vequett’s girlfriend said that he hit her in the nose. Upon arriving, Walters noticed blood on her neck, shirt, and pants. Vequett denied hitting her.

Nelson Lynn, 24, of 3389 Reynolds Creek Road, Liberty, was arrested by Deputy Chad G. Weddle and charged with fourth-degree assault. Court records state that Nelson was trying to fight with his father, Jerry Lynn, whom he kicked in the back. Jerry stated that after his son kicked him in the back he struck Jerry in the face.

Woman charged with DUI

Crystal Gail Adams, 38, of 95 Apostolic Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on E. Ky. 70, Yosemite, by Sheriff Jerry Coffman and Deputy Chad Weddle on May 22. Court records state that officers received a complaint on the vehicle and that the driver had wrecked behind the Tobacco Shed in Yosemite. Adams failed the standardized field sobriety test, admitted to smoking marijuana, and had a county road sign and a caution cone in the trunk of the vehicle, with a value totaling $86.26.

Janis M. Ellis-Irwin, 79

Janis Marlene Ellis-Irwin, 79, of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., passed over peacefully Tuesday, May 13, 2014 with her family by her side.

She was born in Liberty to the late Clayton and Lela Walden-Ellis on Oct. 24, 1934. She was a devoted mother and wife to Senior Master Sergeant Donald Irwin, who retired after 27 years of service and who took her all over the world with the Air Force.

Janis was a business woman and an accountant. Janis pioneered in the Business and Professional Woman Association in 1981. She was the owner and president of an accounting firm called Action Data Services. She owned and operated TMRI Management, a cleaning service in Destin, Fla. She won an Umpire of the Year award for the first lady umpire and for her contribution to the fast pitch baseball game in 1974. She retired from Leo Whitworth in 2004. After Janis retired, she was a mentor for children in the

J. Chester Porter, 73

J. Chester Porter, attorney, banker, entrepreneur, died Monday, May 19, 2014 at the age of 73 at home surrounded by family.

Chester is survived by his wife of 52 years, Betty; a daughter, Jennifer Porter Griffiee (and Keith); a son, Jack (and Lora); and five grandchildren, Jack Chester Porter III, Casey Porter, Peyton Griffiee, Isabella Griffiee, and Jackson Griffiee; a foster daughter, Lee Miller (and Max) and children, Alexandra Miller, Taylor Miller; and three brothers, Leonard Porter, Kenneth Porter, and William G. Porter.

He was born in New Palestine, Ind. and raised in Casey County near Brush Creek. He was preceded in death by his parents, William A. Porter and Livona Morgan Porter; and twin brother, Lester Porter.

Chester achieved his dream of becoming a lawyer through hard work and dedication. He earned a bachelor's degree from Campbellsville University, majoring in economics and social studies. He also earned a law doctorate from the Brandeis School of Law at the University of Louisville. Campbellsville University recognized his accomplishments with the Distinguished Alumnus Award in 1985 and an Honorary Doctorate in 2003. The University of Louisville Brandeis School of Law named him its Distinguished Alumnus in 2001 and Chester received the highest honor from the U of L Alumni Association when he received the 2003 Alumnus of the Year Award.

Chester Porter served on the Board of Trustees of both Campbellsville University and the University of Louisville, where he was appointed by four Democratic and Republican governors for a term of 22 years. He was elected Chairman of the U of L Trustees five times, the longest serving Chairman in the board's history. He also was elected Chairman of the Board of Directors of the University of Louisville

PORTER

Foundation for seven terms. The scholarships he instituted while leading both these organizations are his legacy to the many deserving students who have changed their lives through education and will for generations to come. His generosity influenced both universities during his leadership and has left an indelible imprint on the future of each.

As a Bullitt County lawyer, he served two terms as Bullitt County Attorney, and was city attorney for Mt. Washington and Lebanon Junction. He was founding partner of Porter & Associates, founding Chairman of the Board and general counsel of Porter Bancorp, Inc., a multi-bank holding company and its subsidiaries, Chairman of the Board of The Peoples Bank of Taylorsville; Chairman of the Board of Crossroads Bancorp, and director of Peoples Bank Mt. Washington.

His family was his greatest treasure and pride. He was passionate about thoroughbred horse racing and encouraging higher education. He loved being the tobacco farmer from Casey County and the attorney from Bullitt County, both places he loved and considered home. He will be missed sorely by all those who knew him.

Funeral services were held May 22 at First Baptist Church of Mt. Washington with burial in the Mount Washington Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers donations can be made to the scholarship fund, Betty and Chester Porter Fellowship at the University of Louisville and Campbellsville University, First Baptist Church Building Fund or Sanders-Brown Center for Aging at the University of Kentucky.

McFarland-Troutman-Proffitt Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Police say man kept employees in basement

Louisville Courier Journal

A Louisville man faces a human trafficking charge after police say he kept employees locked in his basement.

Louisville Metro Police say 42-year-old Ming Wen Chen kept employees from the the Golden Palace Buffet — a restaurant he owns — in the basement of his Churchdown Lane home and took them to and from work in a van with wooden benches.

According to an arrest report, the victims were working 12-hour shifts, six days a week with “little or no breaks, and limited freedoms” at the restaurant, located near Third Street Road and Outer Loop.

Police arrested Chen at his home May 21 following an investigation. Chen is being held at Metro Corrections on $50,000 bond.

Creation Museum acquires a dinosaur

Kentucky Enquirer

Ebenezer has long been dead, but he can still kick up controversy.

That’s the name given to the dinosaur – an Allosaurus – whose 30-foot-long, 10-foot-high fossil skeleton went on display May 24 at the Creation Museum in Petersburg.

Museum officials say the creature likely died in Noah’s flood, 4,300 years ago.

The mainstream scientific community says that is, to put it bluntly, hogwash.

“The claims of the age of this thing are not based on scientific methods,” said David Meyer, a paleontologist and emeritus professor of geology at the University of Cincinnati.

Allosaurs, Meyer said, lived in the late Jurassic period, about 150 million years ago. The last dinosaurs perished about 65 million years ago.

Answers in Genesis, the nondenominational Christian ministry that built and operates the museum, was founded on the belief that God created the heavens and the Earth and all living things in six consecutive 24-hour days, 6,000 years ago, which would mean that dinosaurs and humans once co-existed. Exhibits such as the Allosaurus are designed to persuade people to embrace that literal interpretation of the Bible.

Ken Ham, president and founder of the museum, said in a news release that having the skeleton will “help us defend the book of Genesis and expose the scientific problems with evolution.”

Among mainstream scientists, evolution is an almost universally accepted fact.

But back to Ebenezer, a sharp-toothed meat-eater that walked on its strong hind limbs.

He is considered an exceptional specimen, according to the museum, because of his almost-complete 3-foot-long skull and 53 teeth. And while the fossils of many dinosaurs are scattered, Ebenezer’s bones were found together. More than half of them were recovered. The dinosaur was discovered in northwestern Colorado. It was bought by the Pasadena, Maryland-based Elizabeth Streb Peroutka Foundation, restored, and donated to the Creation Museum. The skeleton has been appraised at $1 million, according to the museum, and the exhibit in which it will be displayed cost $500,000.

Beekeeping expert will become Kentucky’s new state apiarist

Appalachian News Express

A nationally known beekeeping authority and author will join the Kentucky Department of Agriculture as Kentucky’s new state apiarist, Agriculture Commissioner James Comer announced last week.

Tammy Horn of Lexington will assume the post June 1.

“We are very fortunate that we were able to hire Tammy Horn for this important position,” said Comer. “Dr. Horn’s passion for beekeeping has led her to a storied career studying these amazing insects and advocating for beekeeping to a nationwide audience. As Kentucky’s state apiarist, she will continue her work to expand the beekeeping economy in Kentucky.”

Dr. Horn currently is senior researcher and apiculturist in the Center for Economic Development, Entrepreneurship, and Technology at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. Dr. Horn is director of Coal Country Beeworks, a project affiliated with ECU that develops pollinator habitat on surface mine sites. She will continue her collaboration with ECU through the university’s regional stewardship initiatives.

Dr. Horn is the author of “Bees in America: How the Honey Bee Shaped a Nation” and “Beeconomy: What Women and Bees Can Teach Us About Local Trade and Global Markets,” and a third book is forthcoming. She has written numerous articles and given many presentations and interviews.

As president of the Eastern Apiculture Society, Horn will preside over its conference at ECU this summer. She is president of the Kentucky State Beekeepers Association. Her awards include a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Kentucky State Beekeepers Association in 2011 and the Kentucky State Beekeeper of the Year Award in 2009.

Born in Harlan County and with strong family ties to Eastern Kentucky, Dr. Horn was introduced to beekeeping by her grandfather.

Fort Knox’s 3/1 Brigade inactivated at colors casing ceremony

News Enterprise

Standing at attention on Brooks Field on Fort Knox, 1,200 soldiers let their flags fly one last time as they were consigned to history on May 21.

The colors casing ceremony, which signified the third inactivation and change of command for the 3rd Brigade Combat Team, 1st Infantry Division, was an emotional one for members of the unit. The ceremony marked the final time they would formally stand with fellow members of their battalion elements, who toured alongside them for up to nine months overseas.

“We place duty first and seize victory in every mission we are assigned,” said Maj. Gen. Paul Funk. “Today, after the longest sustained conflict this country has ever known, we have been called to be sized with the Army for future conflict.”

The colors are transported and stored in the U.S. Army Institute of Heraldry and the Center for Military History once they are cased. They will remain in the department until the brigade is called back for active duty. Speeches by Col. William Ostlund and Funk highlighted the history of the Duke Brigade, which first was activated in 1917 during World War I. The 3/1 fought in every major war with the exception of the Korean War and last was reactivated in 2007 at Fort Hood, Texas.

During the ceremony, Ostlund and Funk inspected the troops to ensure they were ready to be transferred to a different unit. Other soldiers will be honorably withdrawn from service or retire.

Ostlund, who commanded the Duke Brigade on their most recent tour, used his words to illustrate the dangers soldiers in the 3/1 faced overseas.

“Out of earshot, an Apache helicopter fires a Hellfire missile,” Ostlund said. “Duke soldiers, with Afghan partners, moved through the dark to search the dead. Afghanistan and the world are safer tonight.”

After the Dukes received their respective unit awards, they rolled up the flags that once furled liberally in the breeze and stowed them in camouflage sleeves. The ceremony came to a close when the troops were honored by a cavalry charge by 1st Infantry Division soldiers from Fort Riley, Kansas.

McConnell challenges Grimes to three debates

Lexington Herald Leader

U.S. Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell, fresh off his primary win against Tea Party candidate Matt Bevin, is challenging Democratic nominee Alison Lundergan Grimes to three debates.

In a letter signed by McConnell, which the Herald-Leader obtained May 21 and the McConnell campaign confirmed would be sent to Grimes, Kentucky’s senior senator congratulated his Democratic opponent on winning her party’s nomination and challenged her to a series of debates — with several conditions.

“In order to present our views fairly and without interpretation by traditional media filters, I believe we should participate in three traditional Lincoln-Douglas style debates moderated only by a single timekeeper/moderator,” McConnell wrote. “By conducting these debates without an audience, without props and without notes, it will allow for an unvarnished exchange of views for Kentuckians to evaluate.”

At a campaign stop last week, Grimes said she would welcome the debates with McConnell. “My team will get with his campaign to work out the details of that, but that’s something that I have always been open to,” she said. “I look forward to holding him accountable.”

McConnell also proposed concluding the debates near Labor Day, before most voters traditionally pay much attention to the fall election.

“I believe that in order to present our views before Kentuckians are inundated with advertising, we should agree to hold the first of these three debates before the Fourth of July,” McConnell wrote. “This will allow for our first real exchange of ideas a full calendar year after you announced your candidacy.”

McConnell suggested a second debate before the annual Fancy Farm political picnic in early August and a third near Labor Day. McConnell agreed to have WDRB-TV in Louisville host the first debate, scheduled for June 21. The Grimes campaign has yet to agree to a date, format or host. Referring to the May 18 Herald-Leader, McConnell wrote that the newspaper’s editorial board suggested that “May 21 would not be too early for us to find time to debate, and I agree.”

Specifically, the editorial suggested that the candidates begin trying “to find time in their fall calendars to debate on Kentucky’s public television network.”

Neither candidate showed up for the only statewide debates in their primary races, which were aired on KET, but Grimes appeared willing, if not eager, to debate McConnell during an interview on her campaign bus.

“When it comes to debating, it probably will be Mitch McConnell that will be the ‘empty dress’ and won’t show up on the other side,” she said, referring to a remark made about her by a National Republican Senatorial Committee staffer last year.

Cooperative Extension: 100 years of navigating change

While change isn't easy for some people, it's inevitable in some circumstances. Throughout the history of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, countless agents have worked to help Kentuckians learn about and embrace important changes.

2014 marks the 100th anniversary of the passage of the Smith-Lever Act, which formally established the national Cooperative Extension Service system. The UK Cooperative Extension Service is celebrating ways that extension has helped clients change their lives for the better.

Many of the duties of the first extension agents included helping farmers become better stewards of the land and helping homemakers improve food preservation techniques so they and their families could lead healthier lives. Today, extension agents continue to work to make Kentuckians lives better, but now these duties may include helping farmers keep up with the latest precision agriculture technology, guiding families as they bounce back from the recent recession or teaching 4-H'ers about the consequences of bullying.

Despite the many social, technological and academic changes that have occurred in the past 100 years, one thing that has remained constant is that Kentuckians can always turn to their county Cooperative Extension agents to get reliable, research-based information on topics ranging from bedbugs to public speaking to physical activity. While extension agents don't make decisions for their clients, they do provide them with the most up-to-date knowledge so individuals make the best decision possible for themselves.

Today, change occurs rapidly, and extension is still the place where Kentuckians can turn to for help embracing those changes and moving forward toward a better Kentucky. For more information on local programs, contact the Casey County Office of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service at 606-787-7384.

Casey County's office of the University of Kentucky Extension Service held a 100th Year Celebration of Cooperative Extension on Friday at the Extension Education building. The Casey County Pork Producers cooked pork burgers and staff members were on hand to answer questions and greet guests. Here, Kentucky Sen. Jimmy Higdson, R-Lebanon, visits with Keisha Atwood, Audrey Carman, and Lisa Caudill.

Opening entry day for Casey County Fair floral hall is June 4

Casey County Fair Floral Hall Entry

The Casey County Fair Floral Hall Committee is very excited about opening entry day on Wednesday, June 4 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Pork Producer's Building at the Ag/Expo Center. Please check out the fair catalog or stop by the Extension Office for the entry listings. Casey County we know how talented you are. Please bring your items out to Floral Hall and enter them so we can showcase Casey County.

New this year, on entry day there will be table exhibits in the entry hall. It is free and open to the public so come out and join in all the fun.

Extreme Heat's Effect On Older Adults

Summer is upon us, and temperatures are beginning to heat up. While that may be welcome news for many, combinations of high humidity and excessive heat can be dangerous for others, especially older adults.

Debbie SHEPHERD
County Extension Agent for Home Economics

When a person's body cannot properly cool itself, it increases the risks for heat-related illnesses. Older adults are more susceptible to hyperthermia, a common heat-related illness that results in a dangerously high body temperature. The most common form of hyperthermia is heatstroke. Heatstroke occurs when a person's body temperature reaches 104 degrees Fahrenheit or higher. Prolonged exposure to hot temperatures and high humidity, existing health problems, some medications and being older increase the risk of heatstroke. When body temperature rises above 107 degrees, it can be fatal.

Older adults are more susceptible to hyperthermia, because sweat glands, which normally help regulate the body's temperature, often diminish in number, while those remaining may not function as well. This slows older adults' ability to properly regulate their temperature. Certain medical conditions common to old age such as diabetes, dehydration, and heart, kidney and central nervous systems diseases can further decrease the body's ability to regulate temperature. Normal age-related skin changes can also make it more difficult for older adults to regulate their body temperature and adjust to extreme heat.

Older adults are at additional risks for heat-related illnesses, if they are overweight, underweight, drink alcoholic beverages, live in homes without fans or air conditioners, go outside on hot and humid days, and overdress or wear the wrong type of fabrics in hot weather.

On hot, humid days, older adults are highly encouraged to stay inside in an air-conditioned or well-ventilated building. It is important to note that fans alone may not produce enough cooling effect on extremely hot days to help individuals regulate body temperature. Those without air conditioners should take cool baths or showers and seek accommodations that offer cool air, such as the home of a family member or friend, a church or a community center. Other air-conditioned places that can help a person escape from the heat include malls, grocery stores, public libraries or heat-relief shelters.

Individuals can also reduce their risk for heat-related illnesses by limiting outdoor physical activity on hot days to the early morning or late evening, wearing light-weight, light colored and loose fitting clothes, wide-brimmed hats and sunscreen. Those who must work outdoors during extremely hot and humid weather should take frequent breaks if possible in a shaded area.

Regardless of age, it is never a good idea to sit or stay in a vehicle on a hot day. Temperatures inside an enclosed parked car can get as much as 19 degrees warmer than the outside temperature in just 10 minutes and reach 45-50 degrees warmer than outdoors within an hour.

It is always important to check on older friends, relatives and neighbors during extreme heat to make sure they are weathering the heat well.

More information on health topics is available at the Casey County office of the UK Cooperative Extension Service. 787-7384.

CU honors three local teachers

Campbellsville University honored 166 teachers from 58 school districts throughout Kentucky by receiving the Campbellsville University Excellence in Teaching Award on May 10 at the Ransdell Chapel on the CU campus.

The following Casey County teachers were among those who received the award — Jamie M. Price, Jones Park Elementary; Judy F. Johnson, Casey County Middle School; Kayla Jo Allen, Casey County High School.

■ Price is a fourth and sixth grade language arts teacher at Jones Park Elementary. She has also taught at Middleburg Elementary School. She graduated from Casey County High School in 1991. In 1994 she earned her degree in elementary education from Western Kentucky University. She earned her master's at Eastern Kentucky University. Also from Eastern, she received her Rank I.

She is the wife of Scott Price and the mother of Alex, Andrew and Adam Price. Her parents are George Brown of Liberty and the late Alice Brown.

■ Johnson is a 1993 graduate of Casey County High School who teaches seventh and eighth grade language arts at Casey County Middle School. She also taught at King Middle School in Mercer County.

She graduated from Eastern Kentucky University in 2003 with her bachelor's degree. Also from Eastern, she earned her master's degree in education in 2008.

She is the wife of Dan Johnson and the mother of Brady and BoRaya Johnson. Her parents are Johnny and Joyce Maupin of Liberty.

■ Allen is a high school math teacher at Casey County High School having taught there since 2011. She is a 2006 graduate of Casey County High School and a 2010 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with a bachelor's degree in math and statistics. In 2012 she graduated from Cumberland with her master's in teaching. She is the wife of McKay Allen. Her parents are Rich and LaDonna Cooper of Liberty.

Make college more affordable by saving money on non-billable expenses

When it comes to comparing the costs of various colleges, remember that on the broadest level, costs are divided into billable and non-billable costs.

To save money, follow these tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA).

Billable costs are what you have to pay to start college.

At a minimum, these costs include tuition and fees.

If you're going to live in school-provided housing, billable costs will also include room and board. These costs are called billable because the school will bill you for them.

Non-billable costs include textbooks; supplies, such as laptops and tablets; transportation; and personal items, such as shampoo, clothes, entertainment, laundry, and other expenses.

You can save money, sometimes a lot of money, in room and board and non-billable costs.

Textbooks are expensive, but you can save money by buying used books if possible.

Renting books is an option. Some schools now include the cost of renting textbooks in tuition and fees.

If you're attending a school nearby, you can save room and board by commuting from home. You can also cut room and board costs by sharing an apartment with friends. However, some colleges require freshmen to live on campus their first year.

It's a good idea to compare billable and non-billable costs at the colleges you're considering. Once you've done that, you and your parents can discuss ways to save.

Wethington named a 2014 Rogers Scholar

Casey County High School student Lauren Wethington has been selected by The Center for Rural Development to represent Casey County as a 2014 Rogers Scholar.

Lauren, 15, a sophomore, will join 60 high school students from Southern and Eastern Kentucky this summer for the Rogers Scholars program on the campus of Lindsey Wilson College.

Rogers Scholars, the flagship youth program of The Center, is an intensive one-week summer program that provides leadership and exclusive college scholarship opportunities for students to build their skills as the region's next generation of leaders and entrepreneurs.

"I hope to further my leadership skills, get a better feel for how living on a college campus is like, and ultimately develop skills that will help me my whole life," said Wethington.

Wethington is the daughter of William and Nikki Wethington of Liberty.

This year's dates for the Rogers Scholars program are June 22-27 and July 6-11.

Three from Casey medal at state track and field meet

Track and field teammates Allison Dallman and Lakken Miller take their place on the podium at the KHSAA state track meet. The two tied for third place in the high jump event at the state meet.

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

Every so often two athletes get to stand side by side when medals are presented at the KHSAA state track and field meet in the event of a tie; however it is very seldom two teammates who share that honor.

Last Friday, junior Lakken Miller and sophomore Allison Dallman both cleared 5’0” in the high jump in the 2A competition to share the third place honor at the state meet.

“It was pretty cool and they both jumped about where they should be,” said Coach Jon Vaughn. “I think they did excellent. I was happy with both of them.”

Miller, who cleared 5’2” to claim the regional title, competed in the event last year at state but only cleared 4’8” to take 12th place. Dallman was returning to Casey’s track and field team after sitting out the 2013 season. Vaughn is optimistic about what the two could accomplish next season.

“I think both of them could have a break through anytime, now,” he said. “Fundamentally, there are things they could do to get them four or six inches (higher).”

Casey’s only other medalist was senior Shelby Stringer in the pole vault. Stringer was the 2013 state champion with a mark of 10’ that tied the state meet record. She did not claim a repeat title but cleared 9’0” to tie North Oldham’s Haley Oliver for fourth place. “The pole was holding her back. She’s still an excellent pole vaulter,” Vaughn said. “Fundamentally, her technique, (is great). But it’s hard to follow up a first place.”

The pole vault competition increased dramatically this season, as Stringer was the only athlete to even clear 10’ last season. This year, that mark only earned Fort Campbell’s Dascha Hix a third place finish. A pair from Lexington Catholic went one-two with vaults of 10’6” and 11’.

Stringer will be attending Morehead State University next fall and joining their cheerleading squad. Vaughn said he would not be surprised to see her become a member of their track and field team and take up pole vaulting with them.

“I have no doubt she’ll improve. Bigger, better things are ahead,” Vaughn said, adding he hopes Stringer will be able to come back and help develop future vaulters for Casey County.

Three other individuals represented Casey at the meet, as well as a relay team. Despite not medaling, Vaughn was pleased with the way all of the girls’ competed.

“All of them had fun, had a great attitude and were really respectful even though there is pressure on them,” he said. “It looked, to me, like we belonged there. We competed. They were respectable when you consider it’s 20-22 of the best athletes in 2A.”

Seventh grader Brenna Hayes was Casey’s only other field competitor. Coming in as the 5th Region champion in both discus and shot, Hayes threw short of her best and missed medaling.

“Brenna had an excellent end of the season but (her state performance) shouldn’t take away from her success,” Vaughn said. “She had two great meets in a row and the third one not so great but she’s seventh grade.”

Hayes was 12th in the discus with a throw of 92’1”. She threw 99’8” at region and has a personal best of over 100’. In shot, she threw 32’8” for 10th place, over a foot less than her regional toss. Hayes also won both events in the middle school state competition the week prior.

Tiara Cochran represented the Lady Rebels in both of the hurdle events on Friday. She ran 17.52 for 13th in the 100 and 51.54 in the 300 for 17th place.

“Tiara looked really great in the hurdles,” said Vaughn. “She looked excellent in the 100.”

Jenna Vaughn ran a competitive mile for 15th place. The seventh grader ran near her best with a time of 5:46.47 and had the opportunity to share a lane with Collins’ Gabriella Karas, who not only won the mile and set the 2A state record, but also set the state records in the two mile and half mile as well.

“Jenna didn’t PR, but she looked good. She held her own against those older girls,” said Vaughn.

To close out the day, Cochran, Miller and Vaughn all joined forces with seventh grader Chelsea Elmore to compete in the one-mile relay. While they only finished 14th, they did shave 10 seconds off their previous best time.

“That was a great way to end the (meet). Right before (it started), I called them all over to the fence and pumped them up like crazy and spoke to them individually,” said Vaughn. “I didn’t get exact splits on all of them, but I’m pretty sure they all PRed in the 400. I definitely would like to see those four girls medal next year.”

The coach was excited Vaughn, Elmore, Hayes and seventh grader Breanna Davison, who went as the relay alternate, all had the opportunity to experience the state meet environment and is looking forward to the team’s future potential. For now, though, the 2014 season is over and the coach welcomes anyone interested to begin running and training for cross country, starting next week.

Baseball Rebels end season with district loss to Pulaski County

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Rebel baseball team did not pull the district upset they were hoping for, but the young Casey team showed strong opposition to the talented Pulaski County Maroons (11-25, 6-2) on May 19. The Rebels ended their season with a 7-1 loss to Pulaski in the opening round of the 47th District Tournament.

Casey was defeated by Pulaski twice in the regular season, 10-3 and 11-0, but managed to come out with an early lead, going up 1-0 in the first inning.

“I felt we played really good,” said Coach Greg Hammond. “We came out focused and we got on the board first.”

Freshman Blaine Sharp batted in fellow freshman Jonathan Gillock in the first inning to start Casey off on the right foot; however, the absence of two starters made the game an uphill battle for the Rebels. Juniors Landon Carman and Matt Sharp, key players from the outfield and infield, were both suffering illnesses.

“That was a lot to overcome,” Hammond said. “If those guys had played, we had a pretty good shot of upsetting (Pulaski), but it really makes things more difficult when you don’t have those two guys, but their safety comes first.”

Pulaski balanced the scoreboard with a run in the bottom of the first and then added three runs in the second to go up 4-1.

The Rebels did not earn any more runs throughout the night; however, they held the Maroons to only six hits while picking up five of their own.

“We were doing things we had to do, but there really was just too much we had to overcome,” Hammond said.

Casey finishes its season 5-21 (0-7). The record may not appear impressive on paper, but the coach is pleased with the direction and progress of the young team.

“Defensively, at the beginning of the year, we weren’t good at all, but we improved on that. We’re starting to really get solid on the routine stuff,” Hammond said. “Our batting has come along, but we still have a long ways (to go). We’re pitching two freshmen who are only going to get better.”

Gillock and Blaine Sharp, who pitched in the Pulaski game, totaled for more than 77 of Casey’s 146 innings pitched this season. Nick Goode was also a heavy pitcher with 38 innings pitched. Sharp finished with 40 strikeouts while Gillock and Goode had 21 and 20 respectively.

Gillock was also impressive at the plate, finishing with 16 hits and 15 runs this season. Matt Sharp totaled eight runs and 14 hits. He also had the most RBIs with eight.

Defensively, Matt Sharp and Hunter Christian led the team with a 95.7 percent and 94.6 percent fielding percentages. Christian had the most putouts with 83 while Sharp and Alex Price each had 70.

Lady Rebels fall to Somerset in 47th District Tournament game

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

Casey met and fell to the Somerset Lady Briar Jumpers for the third time this season, bringing the Lady Rebel softball season to an end. The team fell 14-4 on May 19 in the opening round of the 47th District tournament.

“(They had) one strong inning to beat us,” said Coach Bryan Cross. “It was one mistake, then one throwing error led to a fielding error. Then they got hot and they started hitting the ball.”

After falling to Somerset (20-14, 7-2) by only two twice in the regular season, the Lady Rebels hoped to pull a post-season upset and advance to the district finals; however, an inning that saw numerous Casey field errors and strong hitting from the Lady Jumpers resulted in a score difference the Lady Rebels could not overcome. Casey had the early lead going ahead 3-1 by the end of the third inning, but a seven-run inning from Somerset took its toll.

“After third we’re up 3-1 and 15 minutes later we’re down 8-3,” Cross said. “That one big inning really hurt us and then we got down (mentally). We were excited, because we were winning and we were playing hard. We didn’t quit playing hard, but we played with disappointment.”

Somerset went on to face Pulaski County in the district championship game where they earned the 2014 title in a 8-1 victory. Cross said his team’s disappointment was not in the loss itself, but in their performance as a whole.

“It’s the disappointment of not playing your best when your best is what you’ve got to have,” he said. “They felt like, ‘We did this to ourselves.’”

The Lady Rebels may not have earned a trip to the 12th Region tournament like they did last year, but the did better their record by one win, finishing 10-16 (3-5).

“We’re not where we need to be (as a program), but the girls who have put their heart and soul into it, the juniors and seniors, have turned it around to get it competitive. I’m really proud of them,” said Cross. “Our record isn’t a lot better (than last year) but we’ve played better competition. The girls have done a great job of getting the program back to respectable (in the region and district).”

Lois Blankenship played right field for the Lady Rebels this year. The team’s season came to an end on May 19 after a loss to Somerset in the opening round of the 47th District Tournament.

SPORTS TALK

Good teachers should be honored, revered

Hey, remember me? Your local sports writer? Spring has definitely been a whirlwind of sports excitement — so much so that I have not even written a Sports Talk column in weeks. Between so many spring sports and so many of our 2014 CCHS grads signing to continue their athletic careers at the college level, the sports pages have been packed.

But now that I do have the space to squeeze in a Sports Talk, I need to back track to beginning of May and bring the spotlight on a special honor that was presented to someone special in my life.

In the sports world, we regularly honor our coaches for their talent, dedication and impact on athletes during their youth. It doesn't take much experience in athletics to know there is much to be learned on a court, field, course, track (etc) beyond the fundamentals and skills of a game. We learn so much about how to live our lives and the type of people we need to be and our coaches help us learn those lessons.

But some of the most influential people on our youth are not on the fields, but in the classrooms — our teachers. And the Philadelphia Phillies are a professional team that takes time to recognize that and in the beginning of May, my aunt, Joan Wood, who was never a sports coach, received the special honor at the Phillies' 14th annual Teacher Appreciation Night of the Favorite Teacher as selected by center fielder Ben Revere.

Rita "Peat" HARRIS
Sports Correspondent

My aunt has been a teacher my entire life — and not just in her classroom. While she taught for St. Mark School in Richmond, Ky. through my youth, she was always supplying my siblings and I with a wealth of books and teaching all of my cousins and I games, songs and a wealth of fun things. These days, as a librarian in the Marion County school system, she continues to spread the joy of knowledge and learning by building the library of my seven month old and singing songs with her any chance she gets.

Ben Revere was a student of my aunt's (as well as a student of Sharon Calhoun, my aunt's long time friend who shared the Favorite Teacher award with Joan). According to my aunt (and proven by his track record), Revere has been a standout athlete in multiple sports his entire life. (Revere finished at St. Mark and went on to attend Lexington Catholic as a star football and baseball player. He was then drafted in 2007 by the Minnesota Twins. He was traded to the Phillies in the 2012 offseason.) My aunt also commends Ben on the person he is, though.

He has obviously played for many teams throughout his life, had many coaches and he's even had many teachers, but when asked to name his favorite teacher, Revere, without hesitation named my aunt and her friend. My aunt taught him reading and religion while Calhoun taught math.

"They stuck with me through thick and thin," Rever said on the Phillies' community MLB website. "(Joan) taught me how important it is to be a strong reader. She said that would help me in all areas of life, and she was right."

My aunt and Calhoun were both treated to a VIP trip to Philadelphia for special recognition on the field during the Phillies game against the Washington Nationals on May 2.

As the school year draws to a close and our sports seasons have come to an end, no matter if you are a superstar athlete, if it was your first year in sports, if you just signed a college scholarship or if you never did anything past try your hand at T ball many moons ago, remember to stay grounded and that your education is important \ no matter who you are.

And for all of you teachers out there finishing another year, despite whether you were ever an athlete yourself or if you've ever done any coaching, your impact on the young people going through the education system is immeasurable — and you may not even know the impact you are having. Never stop putting your all into what you do for our children. Somebody is noticing and somebody is more grateful than you know.

Kayla Wilson signs to play volleyball at St. Catharine's

By Rita "Peat" Harris
Sports Correspondent

The saying goes, when the shoe fits, wear it, so that is what senior Kayla Jo Wilson is going for when it comes to her post-high school track. The soon-to-be graduate will attend St. Catharine College next fall to study sonography and play volleyball.

"I heard they had a great sonography program and the classes are small so you have more one-on-one time," Wilson said. "And them giving me a volleyball scholarship just made me want to attend there."

Wilson has played volleyball for Casey County schools for six years, but gained experience early in her youth through pick-up games, prior to Casey's middle school program. She has experience in numerous positions on the court — from setter to outside hitter to middle hitter — but will primarily be a setter for St. Catharine.

Wilson said she received the scholarship much in thanks to VolleyReb teammate Mariah Richardson, who will also go on to become her Lady Patriot teammate at St. Catharine.

"(Richardson) first mentioned to the coach that I was a very good volleyball player and he called me up one day and I talked to my parents and and I then decided I would play," said Wilson. "Having a teammate go with me will make this less nerve racking."

Wilson, who received a sports scholarship, plans to study general sonography and looks forward to the small class sizes the school offers; however, she admits the opportunity to play volleyball excites her.

"It's always been a dream to play college volleyball," she said.

Wilson is the daughter of Randal and Becci Wilson.

DEFENDANTS

Pursuant to a Judgment and Order of Sale entered on November 25, 2013, by the Casey Circuit Court this action, the undersigned will sell to the highest and best bidder at public auction the following described real property located in Casey County, Kentucky:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying on the waters of Brush Creek and on Kentucky Highway 49 in Casey County, Commonwealth of Kentucky, and being more accurately described as follows:
Beginning at a stone on the north edge of the right of way of Highway No. 49, and corner to Burl King; thence with King's line N 62 E 11-1/5 rods to a stone; thence up the hollow N 5-1/2 E 13 rods to a stone; thence N 52-1/2 E 8 rods to a stone at ironwood; thence N 51 W 2-1/2 rods to a beech; thence N 78-1/2 W 14 rods to a white oak; thence S 80-3/4 W 5 rods and 15 links to a stone at Highway No. 49; thence S 8-1/4 E 26 rods and 7 links to the beginning, containing 2-1/8 acres, more or less, said description being pursuant to a survey conducted August 9, 1974, by E. T. Cooper, Registered Land Surveyor, No. 1144.

SOURCE OF TITLE: Being the same property conveyed by Ronnie W Atwood and Patsy P. Atwood, husband and wife, to Tim Elmore and Lena Elmore, husband and wife, by Deed dated December 15, 1999 and recorded on December 15, 1999 at Deed Book 195, Page 635 of the Casey County Clerk's records.
Property address: 3458 Kentucky Hwy 49, Liberty, KY 42539
Parcel number: 051-34A

DATE OF SALE: Saturday, May 31, 2014, at 10:45 a.m.*PLACE OF SALE: Casey County Courthouse, Liberty, Kentucky.

The property will be sold to the highest and best bidder(s) on terms of full payment on date of sale, or upon a down payment of ten percent (10%) with the balance on credit of thirty (30) days and the purchaser(s) shall be required to execute a bond WITH A GOOD AND SUFFICIENT SURETY THEREON for the purchase price, said bond to bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from date of sale until paid, and the bond shall have the same force and effect as a Judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the real property until fully paid. The purchaser(s) may pay the purchase price money bond with accrued interest at any time before maturity.

The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon except easements and restrictions of record in the Casey County Court Clerk's Office, Liberty, Kentucky, and any right of redemption which may exist in favor of the Defendants. All delinquent ad valorem taxes, if any, interest and penalties will be paid out of the proceeds of the sale. The purchaser(s) shall be responsible for the 2014 ad valorem taxes.

Possession will be given to the purchaser(s) with the delivery of the deed of conveyance thereto. The purchaser(s) will be responsible for all risks of loss to the premises upon acceptance of their bid at the sale.

The purpose of this sale is to satisfy a judgment in the sum of $62,175.13 plus interest from August 19, 2013, until paid; plus court costs, delinquent taxes, and other approved expenses.

the news today that says our veterans are not getting the proper care. It's good to see our American folks are standing behind them and trying to get them the care that they need. We all need to join in that effort."

Hill emphasized how important it is to remember not only our veterans' sacrifices but the sacrifices made by the families of veterans. Raised by a single mother for the first three years of his life, Hill said his father left for Italy during WWII, just before Hill was born.

"People who don't go off to war sometimes have it just as bad as those who do," Hill said. "My wife was back home taking care of two kids. She's the one who made the real sacrifice."

Carrying on the thread of family tradition, Hill went on to tell attendees about his childhood. When he and his siblings were younger their mother created their own "Decoration Day." She would line the children up and together they would decorate the graves of fallen family members. Hill told the crowd how important families are to veterans, especially overseas, and the positive differences they can make during hard times.

"We all make sacrifices," Hill said. "Those young folks right there are sacrificing their day off of school," Hill said, pointing to the CCHS Air Force JROTC cadets.

Bringing his speech full circle, Hill quoted Matthews 20:28 from the Holy Bible: "Just as the son of man did not come to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many."

"Many have given their life so we can be here today, so we honor them. That is why we are here," Hill said.

Two Casey County veterans, Bennie Lawhorn and Edwin Murphy, were awarded plaques of honor by the Casey County DAV

Chapter 41, for their outstanding service to Casey County veterans and their families.

Before recognizing those veterans who have fallen, Sgt. Smither reminded the crowd that they would not be standing there if it were not for the supreme sacrifice of American soldiers.

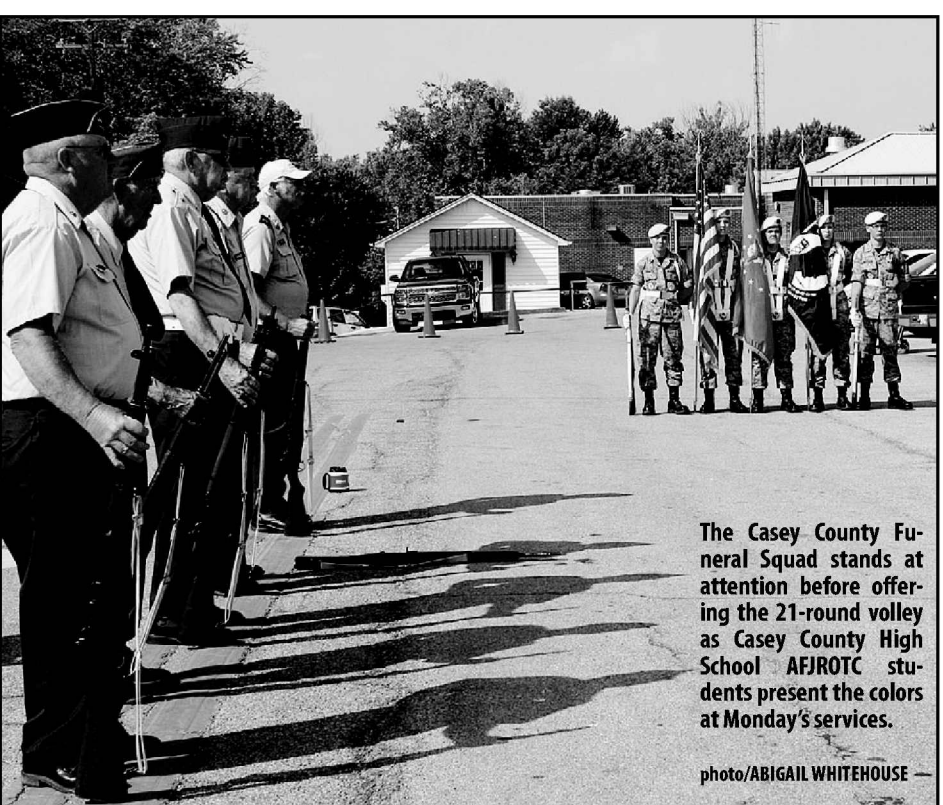

"Today we live in a free nation. But remember, that freedom is not free," Smither said, "it is free by the blood shed of our American soldiers."

Reading the names of Casey Countians who gave their lives in service to their country was Master Chief Charles Derringer, a retired U.S. Navy veteran. Of the 117 Casey Countians who gave the supreme sacrifice, there were 32 who died in World War I, 72 from World War II, six from the Korean Conflict, and seven from the Vietnam War.

DAV Ladies Auxiliary members Mary Elizabeth Lawhorn and Glennis Foster laid a new wreath at the base of the Doughboy Statue and the Casey County Funeral Squad gave a 21-round volley.

Bringing the service to a close, the American flag was raised and then lowered to half staff by MSgt. Wayne Vannoy, U.S. Air Force, retired, and Cleo Lawhorn Sgt. First Class, U. S. Army, retired, followed by the playing of "Taps."

The Casey County Funeral Squad stands at attention before offering the 21-round volley as Casey County High School AFJROTC students present the colors at Monday's services.

Class of 2014 to graduate June 7

What began 13 years ago will come to a conclusion next Saturday for the Casey County High School Class of 2014. Next weekend, they'll celebrate their accomplishments as the Class of '14 will graduate at 4 p.m. on Saturday, June 7 at the CCHS gymnasium. According to the CCHS guidance counselor's office, eight of these students will leave a perfect mark on their high school transcripts as they will be graduating with a perfect 4.0 grade point average. We offer our congratulations to Andrew Beal, Sarah Beard, LaShay Byrd, Allison Clark, Miranda Flannery, James Kuhn, Haley Owens and Shelby Stringer. Inside this special keepsake edition you'll find a story written by a member of the Class of 2014, cap and gown photos of members of the senior class, and ads containing best wishes from several local businesses and individuals. You'll also find a picture of the entire Class of 2014, as well as the class officers, and those who were voted "Who's Who" among the senior class in the senior superlatives. Congratulations and best wishes to the Casey County High School Class of 2014!

CASEY COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 2014

Every day a memory from Casey County High School

My time at Casey County High School has passed like the blink of an eye. There are so many teachers and staff members that have helped me along the way. The desire to keep good grades has been influenced by my parents and grandparents since I started kindergarten. I knew if I wanted any social life at all, I had to try my hardest in academics. I have been raised to do my best at whatever I am involved in and to not settle for anything less.

Besides the educational experiences I have received, I can say I have had a great time in high school; times such as going to pep rallies, powder puff football, or just sitting in the lobby talking to my friends. Every day at Casey County High I have made into a memory.

My favorite memories of high school would be made through playing sports. I have made lifelong friends playing basketball and volleyball all through my high school career.

The lessons I learned from my coaches will never be forgotten. I have many great skills now like leadership, teamwork, and self-discipline.

Many memories of high school are made outside of the school building. I have so many fun memories with my senior class I could not name them all — having bonfires, going riding, or just sitting in town telling old stories.

I have memories that will last forever because of Casey County High School.

Sarah Beard is the 18-year-old daughter of Mark and Sherrie Beard. History is her favorite subject because she enjoys learning about our country. Many people have influenced Sarah's life including teachers, coaches and good friends. She enjoys being busy, playing volleyball, basketball, riding her dirt bike, and hanging out with friends.

Sarah received the KHSAA All State Academic Award, U.S. Marine Corps Scholastic Excellence Award, and The Casey County News Academic Athlete Award for basketball and volleyball. She holds the titles of Homecoming Queen, Basketball Sweetheart and Miss CCHS.

Sarah plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University and become an occupational therapist.

Be Smart, Grads:
DON'T DRINK & DRIVE!

Don't Be a Statistic!

- * Eight teens die every day in DUI crashes.
- * At all levels of blood alcohol content (BAC), the risk of being in a car crash is greater for teens than for older drivers.
- * Teen fatalities make up one-fifth of all alcohol-related crashes. Car crashes are the No. 1 killer of teens in the U.S.
- * Alcohol involvement in crashes peaks at night (9 p.m. to 6 a.m.) and is higher on weekends than on weekdays for teens.
- * Males are almost twice as likely as females to drive under the influence.
